

School for Environment and Sustainability (SEAS) Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Strategic Plan Five-Year Strategic Objectives, Measures and FY19 Actions Year Three

I. Diversity Equity and Inclusion Strategic Plan: Overview

The University of Michigan's Background and Diversity Charge

From being one of the first universities to admit women in 1870 to our historic defense of race conscious admission policies at the U.S. Supreme Court in 2003¹, the University of Michigan has had a fierce and longstanding commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI). This commitment rests upon our recognition of the history in the United States of racial, ethnic, and gender discrimination as well as our understanding that our progress as an institution of higher learning will be enhanced with a vibrant community of people from many backgrounds.

At the University of Michigan, our dedication to academic excellence for the public good is inseparable from our commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. It is central to our mission as an educational institution to ensure that each member of our community has full opportunity to thrive in our environment, for we believe that diversity is key to individual flourishing, educational excellence and the advancement of knowledge.

University-wide Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Goals

Diversity: We commit to increasing diversity, which is expressed in myriad forms, including race and ethnicity, gender and gender identity, sexual orientation, socio-economic status, language, culture, national origin, religious commitments, age, (dis)ability status, and political perspective.

Equity: We commit to working actively to challenge and respond to bias, harassment, and discrimination. We are committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, religion, height, weight, or veteran status.

Inclusion: We commit to pursuing deliberate efforts to ensure that our campus is a place where differences are welcomed, different perspectives are respectfully heard and where every individual feels a sense of belonging and inclusion. We know that by building a critical mass of diverse groups on campus and creating a vibrant climate of inclusiveness, we can more effectively leverage the resources of diversity to advance our collective capabilities.

SEAS's Background and Rationale

From its beginnings in 1903 as the University of Michigan's Department of Forestry, the School for Environment and Sustainability (SEAS) has been adapting to and anticipating the needs of environmental leaders. In 1950, the University of Michigan established the School of Natural Resources, one of the first schools of its kind. Fittingly, the school changed its name to the School of Natural Resources and Environment in 1992. The school led early efforts to achieve environmental justice through research, education, and activism. The school remains a global leader in educating students to be innovative and effective stewards of the environment through our transition in 2017 to the School for Environment and Sustainability to lead in developing what the University of Michigan plans as a major step up in its commitment to environment and sustainability and again adapt to the needs of the planet and society.

The School for Environment and Sustainability's overarching objective is to contribute to the protection of the Earth's resources and the achievement of a sustainable and just society. Through research, teaching and outreach, faculty, staff and students are devoted to generating knowledge and developing policies, techniques and skills to help practitioners manage and conserve natural and environmental resources to meet the full range of human needs on a sustainable basis.

For more than a century SEAS has been committed to academic excellence and leadership in conservation and sustainability. SEAS recognizes the importance of diversity, equity, and inclusion in achieving these goals. As such, SEAS is undertaking a planning process to ensure that diversity becomes a part of our core mission from now on.

Principles of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

The following principles² guide SEAS's efforts to promote diversity, equity, and inclusion:

- Recognizing that one of the pillars of sustainability is social equity, each member of our community (students, alumni, faculty, and staff) should be recognized both as an individual with distinct talents, perspectives, and insights, and as a member of social groups who have benefited from or been disadvantaged by historical and contemporary inequalities;
- Our practices and policies must ensure the full inclusion and empowerment of persons who identify as members of historically disenfranchised groups, and must also cultivate among all community members shared competencies, sensitivities, and habits who are fundamental to building an equitable and inclusive school environment;
- Global environmental problems are complex problems that need diverse perspectives and approaches to arrive at effective solutions. Hence, diversity of identity, class, culture, perspective, learning style, and academic discipline should be protected and actively cultivated in our research, curricular, pedagogical, and work activities;

² These principles were adapted from those outlined in the University of Michigan's School of Education's (2015). Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Statement and Strategic Plan. Ann Arbor, MI: University of Michigan.

- Informal and professional interactions within the school or in relation to school business should enable courageous, respectful, and civil discourse across differences in opinion, perspective, identity, and power status;
- Our institutional responsibility to enact these principles of diversity, equity, and inclusion requires that each of us – individual faculty, staff, and students – contribute to an environment that supports the learning and interactions necessary for the effective, socially-just outcomes that we seek.

Goals and Actions to Support Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

Based on these principles, SEAS commits to, in a manner that is consistent with the law:

- Act with deliberateness and humility as we seek to respect and leverage diversity, ensure equity, and promote inclusion.
- Coordinate and implement practices that are aligned with our commitment to promoting diversity and to advancing equity and inclusion as core school priorities;
- Provide opportunities for all members of the community to learn and develop in ways that are in keeping with the school's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion;
- Develop and refine processes that seek to increase the diversity of our faculty, students, and staff;
- Establish practices and policies that make visible, discourage, and restoratively respond to acts of discrimination, harassment, or personal abuse;
- Promote generous listening and communications that assume all community members are well intentioned;
- Sensitize members of our community to the ways that seemingly innocent utterances or gestures may be experienced as insulting or demeaning by others whether or not such an effect was intentional;
- Allocate time and resources to enhancing our curriculum and pedagogical approaches to reflect and further strengthen the school's commitment to the roles of diversity, equity, and inclusion in the teaching and learning process;
- Identify systematic ways to monitor, regularly measure, and publicly document our progress in achieving our goals for diversity, equity, and inclusion;
- Examine and learn from the outcomes of our efforts and work to improve them;
- Act on our commitment to contribute to a just and sustainable society and to affirm the humanity of all persons.

II. Implementation Highlights and Planning Process Used

Summary of Year 2 Implementation and Highlights

The SEAS Strategic Plan was largely implemented by the DEI Office within the Dana Building. The personnel leading implementation are the Director, who is SEAS Faculty member, Dr. Dorceta Taylor, and the Program Manager, who was hired as a full time staff in year 2, Sonia Joshi. The Program Manager developed programming and hosted events in year 2 that were listed as priorities/ action items within the Strategic Plan. These include, but are not limited to, facilitating specialized training workshops on DEI topics for staff and students, diversity mixers for all of SEAS's constituencies and hosting speakers to present on Diversity, Equity and Inclusion topics in the Environmental Field as well as working with key partners on equitable and inclusive recruitment and hiring processes. The DEI committee, which is comprised of students, staff and faculty also assisted with implementing various action items to meet strategic objectives. The DEI committee has members from SEAS Human Resources and Office of Academic Programs to allow for tracking recruitment, applications and matriculation of students from underrepresented backgrounds in addition to students to best understand and respond to student needs and concerns. We were also able to track staff involvement in DEI activities within the school due to the inclusion of DEI within the annual performance evaluations for staff and faculty this year (DEI questions in faculty evaluations were implemented in year 2). As part of SEAS Visit Day, which is an opportunity for potential incoming SEAS students to visit the Dana building and meet with faculty and learn about SEAS and SEAS programs, the DEI Office hosted a workshop highlighting functions of the DEI office as well as providing students the opportunity to understand the value of diversity in team work. We also reviewed applications for potential Envoys fellows, which is a fellowship opportunity for students coming from underrepresented backgrounds and are admitted into SEAS. The Envoys fellowship supports student diversity initiatives within the School.

Through the SEAS Year 2 DEI Climate Survey that was sent out in May 2018 with tailored questions for faculty, staff and students as well as questions that were consistent for all constituencies (for example, participation in school DEI events and satisfaction with DEI implementation), we were able to assess from faculty, staff and students how well the school was perceived to be progressing on implementing the Strategic Plan. We were also able to determine participation and compare self-reported participation in all of the DEI activities within the School during Year 2 with actual numbers that we had recorded during our School wide events. We sent evaluations to students and staff who attended DEI workshops that were facilitated by the SEAS DEI Program Manager as another means of gaining feedback and measuring behavior change and perceptions/ knowledge on inclusion topics. The DEI Office within SEAS has an open door policy to students and staff, in particular, offer feedback and suggestions that are part of our assessment and implementation checks. Faculty members also have provided input to the DEI office on DEI programming suggestions within the school.

Other metrics and processes include tracking participation in DEI events, participation in DEI events that were not school specific and the development of DEI programs that were student or staff led (independent of the DEI office). In addition, the Community Town Hall in January, provided another avenue for us to evaluate our Action Items and provided information and input that has been used to inform this Year Three Plan.

III. Data and Analysis: Key Findings

The biggest takeaway from Year Two is that SEAS faculty, staff and students value diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) and feel that it is an important part of the School. Our survey results indicate increased priority and increased importance from students, staff and faculty for DEI. We learned that having a variety of DEI events within our school allowed for greatest accessibility and ensured our community members to participate in the way(s) that were most comfortable to them. For example, we had 19 DEI opportunities within SEAS in 2017-18 in comparison to 16 in 2106-17. With a small increase in DEI events, there was increased participation, in particular there was increased participation from faculty at DEI events in year 2. We also learned that we are making tremendous progress in assessing DEI within performance evaluations for staff and faculty and student recruitment. The most popular event was the Community Town Hall discussion in January 2018. That event brought together students, staff and faculty to talk openly about DEI. In addition, signing the banner that SEAS does not support any racist speakers on campus that was part of the Community Town Hall was also popular and garnered majority of the SEAS community to participate in.

We learned that staff are still very engaged and prioritize DEI as part of their regular work and take topics of equity and inclusion seriously, yet they still feel largely underappreciated and overlooked within the school (these findings were revealed 3 different DEI surveys for staff over the past two years). Staff are very interested in learning more about diversity, equity and inclusion and want more opportunities, in general, to come together as staff. Staff are still participating heavily in DEI opportunities in year 2. The implementation of “My Journey to SEAS” at all staff meetings in Year 2, has helped with opportunities for staff to come together.

Microaggressions in and outside of the classroom among students and between students, microaggressions between faculty and staff and microaggressions from supervisory staff to staff continues to be an issue at SEAS in year 2. Faculty including tokenism and a lack of understanding resulting in uncomfortable situations continue to be an issue in SEAS. More workshops on implicit bias and microaggressions may help to address and mitigate these commonplace moments.

Faculty value and believe DEI is an integral part of SEAS. We learned that faculty still may not necessarily understand topics such as microaggressions and are still uncertain about marginalizing behaviors in the classroom (results from SEAS Year 2 DEI Climate Survey). Faculty who participated in the Unconscious Bias training in year 2 understand unconscious bias a bit more but do not fully understand how to overcome. While faculty still are participating the least within SEAS in DEI programs and events, their participation has significantly increased in Year 2 in comparison to Year 1.

The student body within SEAS is still the most engaged constituency when it comes to DEI participation. Students are the ones who participated the most in all events, activities, presentations and trainings. The most popular events for student participation were SEAS Community Town hall and the Signing of the Banner against Racist Speakers.

There still does seem to be some limitations and challenges within our student community, however. Based on student surveys and DEI training workshop evaluation, students noticed that while there have been several DEI related events and opportunities to be involved or participate in DEI trainings within the school, more can be done on multiple levels and that all entities need to be involved, including students, various offices, academic programs, degree programs, faculty, the Deans and the Dean's offices, etc. to really move DEI forward

The key learnings and takeaways were obtained through the Year 2 SEAS DEI Survey that was sent to faculty, staff and students. In addition to surveys hosted a town hall as well as listened to our constituencies who approached the SEAS DEI Office about thoughts, perceptions, ideas and concerns. For any school DEI event, we took note of who attended and for other events we requested our constituencies to RSVP.

Overall, the students, staff and faculty within SEAS believe that diversity, equity and inclusion is important and should be reflected in faculty and staff hiring, admissions and overall culture and philosophies within the building. Consistent with year 1, while we've made significant progress on implementing our DEI plan in year 2, we still have work to do. We understand that many of our students and staff need support and that we need to address power dynamics, microaggressions and feelings of differential treatment within the school. For Year 2, the students, staff and faculty all ranked increasing diversity of domestic underrepresented students as the biggest priority for SEAS and also highly ranked prioritization of the need to enhance support for racial and ethnic minority students, international students, lower income students, first generation students and students who are parents. We need to be more conscious as a community of when events are hosted (to reflect inclusion of all religious backgrounds). There also is a tremendous need that was articulated in the surveys to provide training for faculty and inclusive teaching in the classroom setting. These are all items that have been listed within our Strategic Plan and we will prioritize these in Year 3.

Year 3 Key Recommendations

- Training for faculty and students on Microaggressions and Managing 'Hot Moments' in the classroom. The 'Hot Moments' workshop is offered by CRLT.
- Understanding and identifying potential pay inequity among staff
- Creating a more inclusive environment for staff and more opportunities for staff to come together as a community.
- Have faculty incorporate DEI/social/environmental justice ideas and perspectives in their curriculum/in the SEAS curriculum structure
- Workshops/programming for intersectional identity
- Recruit students from more diverse backgrounds
- Increased participation and engagement of SEAS faculty on DEI events, activities, training modules and related committees, such as the Inclusive Teaching Committee.

- Provide opportunities for staff and faculty to interact with each other
- Provide DEI programming for staff and faculty to be together as learners and participants

IV. Strategic Objectives, Measures of Success and Action Plans

SEAS's Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion strategic plan addresses all members of the SEAS community: faculty, research scientists, postdoctoral fellows, staff, and graduate students. The objectives identified below are drawn from the data collected and suggestions provided by the afore-mentioned constituents as well as alumni. The strategic objectives needed to further the university-wide goals of diversity, equity and inclusion have been aggregated into four domains determined by the Provost's office. Each of these strategic objectives is accompanied by success measures that will be tracked over time, as well as descriptions of single and multiple year actions we will take to accomplish those objectives. For additional detail on assignments, timelines and accountabilities, see Section X of the SEAS DEI Strategic Plan. All strategic objectives and related actions will be pursued in accordance with the law and University policies.

A. Recruitment, Retention and Development

Faculty

Primary DEI Goal: Diversity

Objective #1: Increase diversity in the SEAS faculty

Measures of Success:

- Broadened applicant pools.
- Increased number of diverse applicants asked to give job talks.
- Applicants from new institutions
- Increased hiring of diverse candidates. There is a recognition that some searches will have greater constraints than others.
- Hiring of underrepresented postdocs into tenure track faculty positions

FY19 Actions:

- Develop a guide for searches that will include recruitment principles, policies, and practices for faculty searches and campus visits to support diversity, inclusion, and equity goals. Utilize the School of Education's current guide as a starting point. The guide should advise that:
 - Position descriptions should be as broad as possible, however, such descriptions should always keep in mind the needs of the school.
 - Members of search committee(s) should be required to go to an ADVANCE workshop on diversity. This is a practice that SEAS has already instituted that should continue.
 - Attempts should continue to be made to advertise the position in many different outlets, including those targeting diverse populations of potential applicants.
 - Searches that produce homogeneous applicant pools should be encouraged to extend the search to determine whether a more diverse applicant pool can be found or to provide an explanation as to the reasons for this result. This exercise should be conducted during the recruitment and advertisement phase of the hiring process, rather than the selection phase.
- Leverage "person-specific" hires to diversify, in terms of intellectual perspective and/or demonstrated commitment to diversity, the SEAS faculty. This includes continuing use of existing University diversity programs such as the Provost's Faculty Initiative Program (PFIP) and Target of Opportunity (TOP) facilitate hiring. SEAS should pro-actively recruit faculty members who meet the needs of the School and who can help to facilitate diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts. In this regard SEAS should:

- Identify outstanding scholars who can fit within the prioritized areas of potential hiring
- Develop a forum (speaker seminar, visit scholar, etc.) by which the SEAS community can assess the promise of potential candidates and can cultivate their interests
- Develop a formal mechanism for faculty to propose person-specific hires.

Primary DEI Goal: Diversity

Objective #2: Improve retention rates of all faculty and specifically faculty from underrepresented groups in SEAS.

Measures of Success:

- Promotion of faculty from historically underrepresented groups.
- Increased promotion rates of faculty from historically underrepresented groups.
- Hiring of tenure-track faculty from historically underrepresented groups.
- Successful retention of faculty from historically underrepresented groups.
- Counter offers to retain faculty from historically underrepresented groups being recruited by other institutions.

FY19 Actions:

- Develop a mechanism by which faculty efforts to create a more inclusive community are recognized and rewarded. By recognizing and rewarding these efforts, faculty will be more likely to contribute to a more inclusive community, which in turn will promote retention.

Primary DEI Goal: Diversity

Objective #3: Improve development of SEAS faculty.

Measures of Success:

- Develop and hold a workshop or other training session on mentoring diverse faculty.
 - Incorporate this into the mentoring plan developed for new hires beginning 2017.

FY19 Actions:

- Develop a strong mentoring program that includes training on how to mentor diverse faculty
 - Improve the training of mentors
 - Restructure the existing mentoring program to better meet the needs of assistant and associate professors as well as assistant and associate research scientists
 - Enhance the mentoring of postdoctoral fellows.
- SEAS should identify and reach out to appropriate offices on campus to develop this training and to identify a model faculty mentoring program
 - Seek help from the Center for Research on Learning and Teaching (CRLT) and the Strategies and Tactics for Recruiting to Improve Diversity and Excellence (STRIDE) Committee.

Primary DEI Goal: Equity

Strategic Objective #4: Create an equitable wage system for faculty in SEAS.

Measures of Success:

- Gender equity in pay scales

- Racial equity in pay scales.

FY19 Actions:

- Conduct pay equity study of faculty and staff wages to identify if inequities exist in any of the following areas that haven't been identified in previous studies
 - Identify if there are areas of gender inequity
 - Identify if there are areas of racial inequity
- Develop plan to make salaries equitable if any inequities exist.

Master's and Doctoral Students

Primary DEI Goal: Diversity

Objective #1: Develop an admissions procedure that is more inclusive of and attractive to historically underrepresented students.

Measures of Success:

- Continued recruitment at broader range of venues and through more diverse outlets
- Attract a greater number of underrepresented students (e.g., graduates of minority-serving institutions, Pell grant recipients, first generation, and non-traditional) as applicants and matriculants to SEAS.

FY19 Actions:

- Continue to develop strategies to identify and reach venues and outlets to facilitate broader and more effective recruiting
 - Track number and types of venues/outlets used in recruiting
 - When possible, track number and types of potential applicants reached
 - When possible, track which venues produce applicants
 - If possible, track which contacts turn into applicants
- Develop admissions procedures that overtly guard against unconscious bias on part of decision makers
- Marketing:
 - Continue to develop marketing materials that appeal to the diversity we hope to attract and develop a plan to reach the intended audience.
 - Continue using our website to post biographies and testimonies from current students who came from diverse, underserved, settings – both domestic and international – about their commitment to advancing social change
- Repeat diversity training as part of Visit Day
- Develop mechanisms for interacting with students who are unable to attend Visit Day. This can include:
 - Skype, webinars, videos – especially for international students
 - Conference calls
 - Chat time with current students

Primary DEI Goal: Diversity

Objective #2: Solicit more applications from persons who have been historically underrepresented in SEAS's student population.

Measures of Success:

- Over the next five years, increase the percentage of domestic applications coming from historically underrepresented students (it was 9% in 2015).³

FY19 Actions:

- Continue to collect more diversity data on applicants to enhance our understanding of the applicant pool and our ability to measure progress on DEI efforts on the SEAS application form. For instance, we can:
 - Ask whether applicants were in the foster care system
 - Ask whether applicants were raised in single-parent households
 - Ask if applicants are first-generation U.S. residents
 - Ask whether the applicants' parents or guardians graduated from college
 - Ask whether the applicant's grandparents graduated from college
- Continue to ask applicants to address, in their essay on commitment to diversity, to say if they want to be considered for an Envoys fellowship, why they qualify for it, and what skills or insights they would bring to the fellowship as part of the SEAS application. Provide access to the current ENVOY mission statement and web address.
- Maintain and expand recruitment partnerships with minority-serving institutions
- Maintain and expand recruitment partnerships with specific departments in colleges and universities elsewhere that are likely include underrepresented students with academic backgrounds that are a good fit with SEAS to apply to SEAS
- Continue to develop strategies to recruit through diversity pipeline programs like the Doris Duke Conservation Scholars Program that are being developed in SEAS and elsewhere
- Provide funding, in ways that are legally permissible, to assist in attendance at SEAS.

Primary DEI Goal: Diversity

Objective #3: Increase the matriculation of diverse students in SEAS by making it more affordable to attend the school.

Measures of Success:

- Greater diversity of students matriculating in SEAS.

FY19 Actions:

- Provide increased funding, in legally permissible ways, to assist students to attend SEAS
- All faculty should continue to be encouraged to participate in Visit Day to engage with admitted students and facilitate recruiting
- Continue to track and evaluate the diversity of the pool of students who:
 - Are potential SEAS applicants
 - Apply to SEAS

³ The National Center for Education Statistics reports that between 1990 and 2013, Black and Hispanic enrollments in post-baccalaureate degree programs such as law, medicine, and dentistry nearly quadrupled. Black enrollment increased from 100,000 to 367,000 and Hispanic enrollment increased from 58,000 to 221,000 students. American Indian/Alaska Native enrollment more than doubled over this period going from 7,000 to 15,000 students, while white enrollment increased by 17 percent, from 1.4 million to 1.7 million students. Faculty	Increase diversity in the SEAS Faculty	2016-2021	Develop a guide for searches that will include recruitment principles, policies and practices for faculty searches and campus visits to support DEI goals. Utilize the School of Education's current guide as a starting point. The guide should advise that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Position descriptions should be as broad as possible, to the extent the school's needs are addressed while maximizing the number of qualified applicants for each position. Ex., the school should advertise for a fish ecologist, rather than a fresh water fish ecologist with a certain methodology. This objective does not mandate an interdisciplinary hire for each position. • Members of search committee should be required to go to an ADVANCE workshop on diversity. • Attempts should be made to advertise the position in many different outlets, including those targeting diverse populations of potential applicants. • Search committee reports should include a discussion of what attempts were made to diversify the pool and the gender and ethnic characteristics of the pool • Searches that produce a homogeneous pool of candidates that does not reflect the relevant labor market should be extended until more diverse applicants are found or a justification should be made if the search is to be continued. The SEAS will continue to use the Targets of Opportunity (TOPs) and the Provost's Faculty Initiative Program (PFIP) to recruit new faculty whose background, scholarly expertise, professional expertise and personal commitments are likely to advance the School's DEI goals. In this regard, the school should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify outstanding scholar that will fit within the prioritized areas of potential hiring • Develop a forum talks, visiting scholar, etc., by which the SEAS community can assess the promise of potential candidates and cultivate their interest. • Develop a formal mechanism for faculty to propose person-specific hires. • Retention and equity adjustment packages for faculty. • Note: the PFIP and TOP hire candidates for a two year term, followed by an evaluation and voting process to determine if they will receive a permanent position. 	Broadened applicant pools Applicants from new institutions (those from which we do not typically receive applications) Increased number of diverse applicants asked to give job talks Increased hiring of diverse candidates Jobs posted on broad list of outlets Hiring of minority postdocs into tenure track faculty positions Develop wage equity adjustments for faculty	Dean's Office	Funding to make faculty hires Funding for increased advertising Funding for promotions, hires, equity adjustments, and retention packages

Improve retention rates of all faculty and specifically faculty from underrepresented groups in the SEAS.	2016-2021	SEAS should develop a mechanism by which faculty efforts to create a more inclusive community are recognized and rewarded. By recognizing and rewarding these efforts, faculty will be more likely to contribute to a more inclusive community, which in turn will promote retention. Faculty should be given opportunities to learn how to contribute to this more inclusive community, accessible through the SEAS and university.	Increased rates of promotion of faculty from historically underrepresented groups Counter-offers to retain faculty from historically underrepresented groups being recruited by other institutions. Number of counteroffers made to faculty recruited by other institutions, disaggregated by race, ethnicity, sex, etc	Dean's Office	Funding for promotions, hires, equity adjustments , and retention packages

VII. Plans for Supporting, Tracking and Updating the Strategic Plan

The SEAS DEI Strategic Plan will largely be tracked and supported by the full-time DEI Program Manager, Sonia Joshi. The Program Manager coordinates and works with the SEAS Deans Office, Human Resources, Office of Academic Programs as well as the SEAS DEI Committee, which was comprised of faculty, staff and students to work on implementing action items laid out in the Strategic Plan. The capacity and prioritization of DEI from various offices within SEAS also was key in year two implementation and this will be continued in FY19. For example, staff members within Office of Academic Programs and the Business/ Administrative Office added the strategic objectives and action items from the SEAS DEI Plan into their own Performance Evaluations to help prioritize and ensure that sufficient time was being allocated toward working to reach goals. This type of structure is something we are planning to replicate and expand to ensure that plan implementation does not fall to one or two people but rather is embedded within the SEAS hiring, traditions, philosophies and operating procedures.

As we move into year three, we are planning to have focus groups for students, staff and faculty to revisit the Plan and ensure that all SEAS constituents and priorities, that better reflect the new school, are involved and engaged in framing DEI priorities. This will allow us to assess if the listed action items are relevant and sufficient to meet the School's DEI goals. We will utilize the focus groups faculty, staff and students to gain further feedback and input and to ensure the current DEI plan aligns with the vision and direction of SEAS. We will also have iterative evaluations and progress surveys that will be sent out school wide to gain further input and measure progress.

Having a faculty member as the DEI Director for the school as well as strong committed from the Dean and Associate Deans has provided leadership in navigating mechanisms and methods to engage with faculty members and articulate the value, impact and prioritization of DEI activities in the school. Plan progress will be tracked through metrics and participation data collected by the Program Manager, through performance evaluation information. We will also track progress through pre- and post-workshop evaluations and through listening sessions that will be facilitated by the DEI Program Manager. We will track student matriculation through the Office of Academic Programs and recruitment and hiring of faculty and staff through our Human Resources office.
